PROJECT GH MOVEMENT

Transforming Minds, Empowering Citizens, Building our Nation

PROJECT GH MOVEMENT, which echoes the road to Ghana's development with the slogan "GHANA FIRST," is an initiative that envisions building our Motherland, Ghana, as it had been the vision of our first President, Dr. Kwame Nkrumah, of blessed memory. His dream was to see Ghana today, like its counterparts Malaysia, South Korea, and some European countries today. He started this project on a very good note, but it was truncated due to the coup d'état that led to his overthrow in 1966. The evidence was clearly seen by the many numerous projects and infrastructural facilities as well as systems and institutions he enrolled.

His experiences, from a typical village life to early city life, then to the USA and Europe, made him believe that we could build our country just like other nations of the world have done, at a time when no Black Nation had gone or achieved that far. His vision and ideology, even after his overthrow in 1966 an event still described as the darkest moment in our country's history remain relevant and unmatched many years after his departure.

Today, 68 years after Ghana's independence, everything indicates that our country is a failure. A country that was once the pride of Africa has become a laughing stock among nations. Even countries that were not independent or had broken economies have become great nations, while ours remains inebriated.

In our country's history, there has been only one time when Ghanaians felt proud of their Motherland and had a sense of belonging, and that was during Dr. Kwame Nkrumah's reign. Since then, Ghana has not been the same. Today, life has become meaningless to ordinary Ghanaians, except one to become a politician or travel abroad in search of greener pastures.

PROJECT GH MOVEMENT

Institutions established by the state to improve life conditions, ensure human dignity, and facilitate development have lost their value, leading to large-scale corruption, abuse of power, and indiscipline everywhere in the country. Patriotism and hard work, which used to be the core values of a typical Ghanaian, have become valueless and impracticable. The cost of living and its resultant hardships have become a thorn in the flesh, making life unbearable for the populace.

However, to all Ghanaians, all is not lost if we decide to change. Wisdom says, "Better late than never." and with abundance resources at our disposal, couple with our determination to succeed better life lies ahead for all of us.

On this note, let's reflect on the following:

1. What will Ghana look like in the next 10 years, given the current state of affairs?
2. What is the future of our children in today's perspective?
3. What legacy will we leave behind, and what is expected of us today?
4. What will tomorrow's generations say about us?

These questions and many more that may arise should remind us not to fail because the consequences will be severe for us, our children, and future generations.

PROJECT GH MOVEMENT

PROJECT PROFILE

Project GH Movement is a non-partisan, youth-driven social initiative dedicated to promoting social change, citizen empowerment, and national development in Ghana. The movement seeks to inspire every Ghanaian regardless of tribe, language, age, background, education, or ability to play an active role in building a just, inclusive, and progressive nation.

Through education, advocacy, leadership development, and community engagement, Project GH Movement works to nurture responsible citizens who understand their rights, duties, and power to influence positive transformation in society.

Mission Statement

Project GH Movement exists to promote social change and citizen empowerment through education, advocacy, and community engagement working to build a Ghana where every individual, regardless of tribe, language, age, background, ability, or status, has equal access to opportunities, rights, and justice.

Vision Statement

A united and progressive Ghana that offers equal opportunities, fair laws, and shared prosperity for all its citizens where diversity becomes a source of strength and every person can thrive without limitation.

CORE VALUES

- 1. Unity : We believe in the power of togetherness. Our strength lies in the unity of all Ghanaians working hand in hand beyond tribal, linguistic, and social boundaries.
- 2. Inclusiveness : Every person matters. We ensure that all citizens regardless of age, background, education, or ability have a voice and a place in Ghana's development story.
- 3. Integrity : We uphold truth, transparency, and accountability in all our actions, setting a standard of honesty in leadership and citizenship.

PROJECT GH MOVEMENT

4. Equity and Justice : We stand for fairness and equality, advocating for a Ghana where the same laws, rights, and opportunities apply to everyone.

5. Empowerment through Education : We believe education is the foundation of transformation. Through civic and social education, we empower citizens to become active participants in national development.

6. Service to Nation : Patriotism drives our actions. We dedicate our time, skills, and resources to serve our country selflessly and promote the welfare of all Ghanaians.

7. Innovation and Progress: We encourage creativity and forward thinking as tools for solving national challenges and building a modern, prosperous Ghana.
